Our fully equipped fertility center and in-house IVF laboratory are located near Boston, Massachusetts, and we also offer five convenient satellite locations scattered throughout New England. Our practice is committed to working closely with patients to establish a fertility treatment plan that works best for their goals and expectations. To that end, we staff only board certified fertility specialists who are experienced in providing each and every patient with the care and attention they deserve.

Fertility Solutions' approach to fertility treatment has always been that everyone who wants a family should be able to access the care needed to make their dreams a reality. We offer a number of financial options to our patients, and we welcome gay/lesbian and other nontraditional couples throughout New England who are looking for effective fertility treatment in a supportive atmosphere.

IVF, IUI, Surrogacy and Egg Donation Options for LGBTQ Couples

Fertility Solutions believes in modern family building, which means offering equal access to anyone who wants to create a family regardless of their relationship status or sexual orientation. We are proud to help lesbian partners become mothers, gay men become fathers, and anyone of mixed sexual orientation create a loving home for a child.

Because reproductive technology has advanced so rapidly over the past 20 years, fertility clinics such as ours can now offer the LGBTQ community a number of options to create a family through non-traditional means. Some of these include:

- Intrauterine insemination (IUI)
- In vitro fertilization (IVF)
- Reciprocal IVF/Co-mothering
- Sperm donation
- Egg donation
- Gestational carriers

As a patient at Fertility Solutions, some of the questions we will help you navigate through include who will carry the baby and who will provide the eggs or sperm – or, alternately, where a surrogate can be located and how to find an egg or sperm donor. For lesbian couples we also offer an option of co-maternity, where one partner donates the eggs and the other partner carries the pregnancy. For gay men, we work to help them locate a surrogate and egg donor. These women may be anonymous or they may be a person of the couple's choosing.

Our physicians enjoy helping build families for individuals and couples who may experience greater social difficulties when trying to fulfill their dream of becoming parents. Family building through fertility treatments can be accomplished regardless of whether or not a fertility problem exists, and we will work closely with you to find the best option for you and your partner.
